Maple Sugar Producers Predict Heavy Harvest

MT. SAVAGE-Most of the maple sugar camps in the Savage-Wellersburg area have been a bee-hive of activity the past few days and according to the operators, the prospects are bright for a good harvest. While the sugar season usually begins in this section about the middle of January, it was delayed this year due to the ground being frozen, which prevented the sap from rising. Mysterious as it may seem, when spring is approaching the sap rises from the roots of the maple trees and the crisp frosty nights J. R. Williams hold back the buds. Once the buds come out the sap ceases to flow or loses its true flavor. For several weeks before the actual syrup making begins the operators are busy preparing the CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)keelers and other equipment. Gov. Cecil H. #### A Long Search ols Rewarded

Have you ever spent a year and a half looking for something you didn't know existed with a machine which failed 70,000 times to find it, and after you found it had nothing more than a picture of a shadow which seemed to indicate it had been there?

If you have, then you are probably a member of a group of scientists at the University of California who have just located Xi Zero, or at any rate a picture of his shadow.

Who is Xi Zero? A missing atomic particle, that's who. But chances are you will never have the opportunity of meeting Xi. He doesn't live long enough. With his lifetime of one 10-billionth of a second. Xi Zero has led the science lads a merry chase over 70,000 pictures taken by their mechanical helper, the Bevatron. Not one of these impressions showed any evidence of Xi's presence, but of course he might have been there a billionth of a second before.

Finally. Xi Zero made a mistake, as all those who flee the eagle eye of science research do eventually - he collided with another particle and the eternal vigilance of the Bevatron caught the shadowy impression.

Presumably, no one yet knows what to do with Xi Zero when he is captured, but the thought of adding another victim to the growing list of harnessed atoms provides sufficient impetus to continue the scientific chase.

At least one bit of comfort can be derived from the discovery of Xi Zero - the free world found him first. Thus, if he has any rascality in his nature other than elusiveness he could prove a valuable invisible ally. Anyway, the University of California has a feather in its cap because of the insistence of a team of its seems strange that the "civil scientists in searching for and finding something rights" of an individual can be it didn't know existed.

By George E. Sokolsky Stirring Up Trouble

The questionnaire writer is still busy stirring up trouble for innocent parents. I have before me a questionnaire, used in an American university. The one I have asks only 35 questions but it appears that there is a longer one that has 140 questions. Here are serving till the end of the present 10 samples of the questions asked:

1. Have you been ebmarrassed because of the type of work your father does in order to support the family

"4. Has either of your parents insisted on your obeying him or her regardless of whether or not the equest was reasonable? '8. Do you think your parents fail to recognize that you are a mature person and hence treat you as if you were still a child? "12. Does your mother tend to dominate your

"13. Have your parents frequently objected to the kind of companions that you go around with? 17. Is either of your parents very easily irri-

'19. Has either of your parents certain personal habits which irritate you?

23. Have you disagreed with your parents about your life work?

27. Was your father what you would consider your ideal manhood?

"31. Do you occasionally have conflicting moods of love and hate for members of your family?"

I picked these 10 questions out of 35 because nearly every child can answer them affirmatively at some stage. Sure mother dominates the home! Who else? Otherwise, children would be young

In a full family, there is a mother, a father and children. Of course, mother and father sometimes disagree and all children believe that their parents are at times unreasonable. That is part of the process of growing up. When kids turn on the radio to blare horrible rock-n-roll music which is an insult to anyone's intelligence, naturally a father or a mother or both will, after a while, complain. Are they unreasonable? The first thing a child must learn - and it is something that is extremely hard to learn - is caused the Constitution to be igthat when there is more than one person in a house, consideration for others is very important. And that sense of consideration, if lacking, makes of the unfortunate creature a boor whom others avoid. And apart from what such boorishness does to character, it also may produce economic, marital and other difficulties. It is the business of parents to teach that to children.

Let us look at the first question. Suppose that were asked of Abraham Lincoln! Its absurdity lies in the fact that this country has no aristocracy and that the son of the lowliest may reach the highest station.

It has been the good fortune of the United States that it has had no hereditary aristocracy, no landed gentry, no elite by birth. At the beginning of this century, some feared that rich families would combine, like fraternity brothers in campus politics, to dominate both the economic and political life of the finding short cuts. country. This has not happened. With rare and outstanding exceptions, most rich men's sons have followed the playboy pattern, not imitating Harry Thaw of another generation but doing well enough in their own time and their own way. Aided by income and inheritance taxes, the American style of from shirtsleeves to shirt-sleeves in three generations still holds.

No aristocracy, not even a monied one, forms itself in this country. New York and to a degree Palm Beach, Miami, Las Vegas and Beverly Hills have become playgrounds for the defrocked and exiled aristocracy of Europe, some of whom marry Americans for a respite from poverty. Others travel about this country, more or less on the cuff, serving as shills for various mercantile enterprises. But this is so small a group that its presence is barely noted except by peep-hole columnists. As aristocrats such persons are offensive to normal Americans who believe that equality of opportunity still rules our free society.

Question One in the above questionnaire is therefore not only an irritant in the household but offensive. Before child labor laws put a ceiling on juvenile ingenuity, children who were dissatisfied with family earnings could be neswboys or bootblacks or do a hundred and one odd jobs to show their independence. In this socialistic era, they are required to be idle, listen to rock-n-roll, hang around a soda counter and call themselves Beatniks to prove that they hate themselves and the world. Dissatisfied kids should be given

(Editor's note-While Drew Pearson is out of Washington on a special assignment his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON - The Navy is showing its friends on Capitol Hill another explosive missile document like the one that resulted in the Army's historic court-martial of Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. in

Like the Nickerson memo, the Navy document sharply contradicts President Eisenhower's repeated assurances that the United States is keeping up with Russia as a military power. It estimates "conservatively" that Russia willhave 5,000 intercontinental ballistic/missiles in 1963 and warns that a dangerous "missile gap" will separate the U.S. and U.S.S.R. beginning in 1961.

The memo's author is still a mystery, although it has been traced to the Navy's hush-hush Long-Range Objectives group. A bibliography attached to the memo acknowledges that the material is based, in part, upon secret Navy documents-including top secret study No. 590 by John Coyle, two secret studies by Thomas Phipps, and secret report No. 1909 on the "vulnerability of complex targets to nuclear weapons." Both Coyle and Phipps belong to the Long-Range Objectives unit

"The USSR has assured itself a commanding lead in the intercontinental ballistic missile race," warns the unauthorized memo.

By Jack Anderson

"This lead is producing a vital gap in our deterrent posture, and with current weapons programming, the gap will be widest sometime between 1961 and 1963.

"Based on intelligence reports of USSR production of 15 ICBMs in 1958, extrapolated on the basis of U.S. wartime production. possible Soviet stockpiles of IC BMs in 1963 is conservatively estimated at 5,000." a footnote adds. "When all our programmed strategic weapons are considered together, the adequacy of deterrence dips well down below 100 per cent after 1961, reaching a low in 1962."

Russia's Missile Sites

The merio pooh-poohs President Eisenhower's claim that Russia has no operational ICBMs, pointing out that "at least a dozen launching sites capable of handling ICBMs are known to exist and the USSR is known to have been testing ICBMs for nearly two years.

The document calls for more atomic submarines, loaded with 1,200-mile Polaris missiles, as the answer to the Red missile threat. The Polaris missile system, it claims, is "the only completely mobile strategic ballistic missile system planned which can be operated completely hidden and essentially invulnerable beneath the ocean surface of 70 per cent of the globe.

Note — The first battle-ready Polaris missiles won't be ready until late 1960. Meanwhile, the admirals have hushed up the fact that two test models careened out of control at Cape Canaveral, Fla., endangering several lives. Instead of soaring safely over the Atlantic, both looped backward. One plunged into the Banana River near a tourist camp. The other whipped crazily over an occupied hangar, causing more than two dozen people to injure themselves diving for safety.

Secret Source Fingered The State Department has hushed up the name of the U.S. official whose rueful wisecrack, quoted in Time magazine, touched off three days of anti-American rioting in Bolivia. This column can reveal, however, that he is H. Lee Landerman, former foreign aid official in La Paz, now hiding out at the Bethesda Md., Naval Hospital on sick leave.

Landerman remarked facetious ly to a Time reporter that the only solution for Bolivia's protlems was to divide the country among its neighbors. Hot-blooded Bolivians reacted violently, storming through La Paz, smashing American trucks and burning the U. S. flag. American citizens had to be herded into a La Paz suburb and kept under police protection. Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter telephoned Time publisher Henry Luce last week and begged him not to reprint Landerman's quote. But Time editors could think of no way to report the Bolivian crisis without mentioning what had caused it. The quotation was repeated in the story telling about the riots. The day the new edition arrived in the mountain republic, another emergency was declared.

Luxuries For Officials The assistant secretaries are demanding little luxuries that will run up the cost of the new State Department building an estimated $500,000.

Under Secretary Doug Dillon, the economic chief, demanded wood paneling and private toilet facilities for his new office. Assistant secretaries Livingston Merchant, Roy Rubottom, Walter Robertson and William Rountree also insisted on wood paneling.

An extra office had to be redesigned into the VIP section to accommodate Joe Satterthwaite who was promoted to assistant secretary and demanded all the trimmings the others are getting,

On top of these extras, the striped-pants boys noticed some unseemly cracks in half a dozen pillars between the floors. They ordered the concrete chipped away and the pillars repoured.

The assistant secretaries thought they could get away with a few extra luxuries, despite President Eisenhower's economy drive, because the building cost is falling short of the $49,000,000 Congress appropriated for it. They figured no one would notice if they spent the savings instead of turning the money back. Nixon-Luce Ticket

Rhode Island Republicans have quietly organized a Nixon-Luce club to promote Richard Nixon for President and Clare Boothe Luce for Vice President in 1960. Behind the move are Albert Poli-Jr., Larry Lonardo, Marie Iamele. Edith Duke, and Mathilda West, all close friends of Gov. Christopher Del Sesto.

He has repeatedly warned of the great dangers of inflation inherent in over-spending, and has shown a determination to gauge every governmental activity by that yardstick.

However, some Republicans in the Senate and House, particularly those who must face re-election in 1960, are showing an unwillingness to go before the voters in the role of spending slashers at the expense of needed improvements.

This attitude was displayed clearly in recent Senate votes on public housing and airport construction bills, where many Republicans voted along with their Democratic colleagues for programs much, much larger than proposed by President Eisenhower in his budget message to vell have been fear of gangster reprisals, a not unreasonable fear in such circumstances. Regardless of the legal significance of such a defense, a hearing would have provided an opportunity for presentation of such facts to the judge and might well have affected the length of sentence." The Chief Justice quoted aptly from a pertinent opinion by Justice Frankfurter in another case. Had Mr. Frankfurter held the same view today, he would have supplied the fifth vote toward making the Warren opinion the majority. But the record now is made, and judges throughout the country are bound by the precedent created. The Chief Justice quite properly laments this as he writes of what has been the custom in the past

"In the light of the sentences given in this type of case, I doubt if any judge in the federal system would summarily send a witness to the penitentiary for 15 months for merely refusing to testify in a grand jury investigation of whether a trucker is operating without an Interstate Commerce Commission certificate. It is quite obvious that much of the sentence was for some reason collateral to that investigation. It is not sufficient for the purpose of increasing punishment to act on the suspicion that the refusal of a witness to testify may redound to the interest of a racketeer, and on that basis deny him the protections that Congress has seen fit to accord all witnesses before grand juries. If such factors are to play a part in the sentence the witness is entitled to a hearing on notice."

The Chief Justice has put his finger on the procedural weaknesses in criminal contempt cases. The opportunity is too often denied a citizen to present evidence and argument through his attorney on the concrete issues that may otherwise influence a judge arbitrarily to impose drastic punishment for a minor offense. Instead of a jury of 12 men, a single judge can summarily punish, and apparent-United States liquidation of more ly a Supreme Court majority will back him up.

A Long Search ols Rewarded

Have you ever spent a year and a half looking for something you didn't know existed with a machine which failed 70,000 times to find it, and after you found it had nothing more than a picture of a shadow which seemed to indicate it had been there?

If you have, then you are probably a member of a group of scientists at the University of California who have just located Xi Zero, or at any rate a picture of his shadow.

Who is Xi Zero? A missing atomic particle, that's who. But chances are you will never have the opportunity of meeting Xi. He doesn't live long enough. With his lifetime of one 10-billionth of a second. Xi Zero has led the science lads a merry chase over 70,000 pictures taken by their mechanical helper, the Bevatron. Not one of these impressions showed any evidence of Xi's presence, but of course he might have been there a billionth of a second before.

Finally, Xi Zero made a mistake, as all those who flee the eagle eye of science research do eventually - he collided with another particle and the eternal vigilance of the Bevatron caught the shadowy impression.

Presumably, no one yet knows what to do with Xi Zero when he is captured, but the thought of adding another victim to the growing list of harnessed atoms provides sufficient impetus to continue the scientific chase.

At least one bit of comfort can be derived from the discovery of Xi Zero - the free world found him first. Thus, if he has any rascality in his nature other than elusiveness he could prove a valuable invisible ally. Anyway, the University of California has a feather in its cap because of the insistence of a team of its scientists in searching for and finding something rights" of an individual can be it didn't know existed.

By George E. Sokolsky Stirring Up Trouble

The questionnaire writer is still busy stirring up trouble for innocent parents. I have before me a questionnaire, used in an American university. The one I have asks only 35 questions but it appears that there is a longer one that has 140 questions. Here are serving till the end of the present 10 samples of the questions asked:

1. Have you been ebmarrassed because of the of work your father does in order to support

"4. Has either of your parents insisted on your obeying him or her regardless of whether or not the equest was reasonable?

"8. Do you think your parents fail to recognize that you are a mature person and hence treat you as if you were still a child?

"12. Does your mother tend to dominate your

"13. Have your parents frequently objected to the kind of companions that you go around with?

17. Is either of your parents very easily irri-

19. Has either of your parents certain personal habits which irritate you'

"23. Have you disagreed with your parents about your life work? 27. Was your father what you would consider your ideal manhood? "31. Do you occasionally have conflicting moods of love and hate for members of your family?

I picked these 10 questions out of 35 because nearly every child can answer them affirmatively at some stage. Sure mother dominates the home! Who else? Otherwise, children would be young

In a full family, there is a mother, a father and children. Of course, mother and father sometimes disagree and all children believe that their parents are at times unreasonable. That is part of the process of growing up. When kids turn on the radio to blare horrible rock-n-roll music which is an insult to anyone's intelligence, naturally a father or a mother or both will, after a while, complain. Are they unreasonable? The first thing a child must learn - and the English common law, has it is something that is extremely hard to learn - is that when there is more than one person in a house. consideration for others is very important. And that sense of consideration, if lacking, makes of the unfortunate creature a boor whom others avoid.

And apart from what such boorishness does to tempt cases. Senator Talmadge character, it also may produce economic, marital of Georgia has introduced legislaand other difficulties. It is the business of parents to teach that to children.

Let us look at the first question. Suppose that were asked of Abraham Lincoln! Its absurdity lies in the fact that this country has no aristocracy and that the son of the lowliest may reach the highest station.

It has been the good fortune of the United States forefathers drilled into their chilthat it has had no hereditary aristocracy, no landed gentry, no elite by birth. At the beginning of this century, some feared that rich families would combine, like fraternity brothers in campus politics, to dominate both the economic and political life of the country. This has not happened. With rare and outstanding exceptions, most rich men's sons have followed the playboy pattern, not imitating Harry Thaw of another generation but doing well enough in their own time and their own way. Aided by income and inheritance taxes, the American style of from shirtsleeves to shirt-sleeves in three generations still holds.

No aristocracy, not even a monied one, forms itself in this country. New York and to a degree Palm Beach, Miami, Las Vegas and Beverly Hills have become playgrounds for the defrocked and exiled aristocracy of Europe, some of whom marry Americans for a respite from poverty. Others travel about this country, more or less on the cuff, serving as shills for various mercantile enterprises. But this is so small a group that its presence is barely noted except by peep-hole columnists. As aristocrats such persons are offensive to normal Americans who believe that equality of opportunity still rules our free society.

Question One in the above questionnaire is therefore not only an irritant in the household but offensive. Before child labor laws put a ceiling on juvenile ingenuity, children who were dissatisfied with family earnings could be neswboys or bootblacks or do a hundred and one odd jobs to show their independence. In this socialistic era, they are required to be idle, listen to rock-n-roll, hang around a soda counter and call themselves Beatniks to prove that they hate themselves and the world. Dissatisfied kids should be given an opportunity to work off their beefs. (Copyright, 1959, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Secret Navy Memo Explodes Ike's Reassurances On Weapons Race

(Editor's note-While Drew Pearson is out of Washington on a special assignment his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON - The Navy is showing its friends on Capitol Hill another explosive missile document like the one that resulted in the Army's historic court-martial of Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. in

Like the Nickerson memo, the Navy document sharply contradicts President Eisenhower's repeated assurances that the United States is keeping up with Russia as a military power. It estimates "conservatively" that Russia willhave 5,000 intercontinental ballistic/missiles in 1963 and warns that a dangerous "missile gap" will separate the U.S. and U.S.S.R. beginning in 1961.

The memo's author is still a mystery, although it has been traced to the Navy's hush-hush Long-Range Objectives group. A bibliography attached to the memo acknowledges that the material is based, in part, upon secret Navy documents-including top secret study No. 590 by John Coyle, two secret studies by Thomas Phipps, and secret report No. 1909 on the "vulnerability of complex targets to nuclear weapons." Both Coyle and Phipps belong to the Long-Range Objectives unit.

"The USSR has assured itself a commanding lead in the intercontinental ballistic missile race." warns the unauthorized memo.

By Jack Anderson

"This lead is producing a vital gap in our deterrent posture, and with current weapons programming, the gap will be widest sometime between 1961 and 1963.

"Based on intelligence reports of USSR production of 15 ICBMs in 1958, extrapolated on the basis of U. S. wartime production. possible Soviet stockpiles of IC BMs in 1963 is conservatively estimated at 5,000." a footnote adds. "When all our programmed strategic weapons are considered together, the adequacy of deterrence dips well down below 100 per cent after 1961, reaching a low in 1962.

Russia's Missile Sites The merio pooh-poohs President Eisenhower's claim that Russia has no operational ICBMs. pointing out that "at least a dozen launching sites capable of handling ICBMs are known to exist and the USSR is known to have been testing ICBMs for nearly two years.

The document calls for more atomic submarines, loaded with 1,200-mile Polaris missiles, as the answer to the Red missile threat. The Polaris missile system, it claims, is "the only completely mobile strategic ballistic missile system planned which can be operated completely hidden and essentially invulnerable beneath the ocean surface of 70 per cent of the globe.

Note - The first battle-ready Polaris missiles won't be ready until late 1960. Meanwhile, the admirals have hushed up the fact that two test models careened out of control at Cape Canaveral, Fla., endangering several lives. Instead of soaring safely over the Atlantic, both looped backward. One plunged into the Banana River near a tourist camp. The other whipped crazily over an occupied hangar, causing more than two dozen people to injure themselves diving for safety. Secret Source Fingered

The State Department has hushed up the name of the U.S. official whose rueful wisecrack, quoted in Time magazine, touched off three days of anti-American rioting in Bolivia. This column can reveal, however, that he is H. Lee Landerman, former foreign aid official in La Paz, now hiding out at the Bethesda Md., Naval Hospital on sick leave.

Landerman remarked facetiously to a Time reporter that the only solution for Bolivia's prolems was to divide the country among its neighbors. Hot-blooded Bolivians reacted violently, storming through La Paz, smashing American trucks and burning the U. S. flag. American citizens had to be herded into a La Paz suburb and kept under police Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter telephoned Time publisher Henry Luce last week and begged him not to reprint Landerman's quote. But Time editors could think of no way to report the Bolivian crisis without mentioning what had caused it. The quotation was repeated in the story telling about the riots. The day the new edition arrived in the mountain republic, another emergency was declared.

Luxuries For Officials The assistant secretaries are demanding little luxuries that will run up the cost of the new State Department building an estimated $500,000

Under Secretary Doug Dillon, the economic chief, demanded wood paneling and private toilet facilities for his new office. Assistant secretaries Livingston Merchant, Roy Rubottom, Walter Robertson and William Rountree also insisted on wood paneling.

An extra office had to be redesigned into the VIP section to accommodate Joe Satterthwaite who was promoted to assistant secretary and demanded all the trimmings the others are getting.

On top of these extras, the striped-pants boys noticed some unseemly cracks in half a dozen pillars between the floors. They ordered the concrete chipped away and the pillars repoured.

The assistant secretaries thought they could get away with a few extra luxuries, despite President Eisenhower's economy drive, because the building cost is falling short of the $49,000,000 Congress appropriated for it. They figured no one would notice if they spent the savings instead of turning the money back. Nixon-Luce Ticket

Rhode Island Republicans have quietly organized a Nixon-Luce club to promote Richard Nixon for President and Clare Boothe Luce for Vice President in 1960. Behind the move are Albert Poli Jr., Larry Lonardo, Marie Iamele, Edith Duke, and Mathilda West, all close friends of Gov. Christopher Del Sesto.

Supreme Court of the United States now orders to jail a man who is innocent of any crime against his fellow man. One of the five votes is by a justice who has not vet been confirmed by the Senate. Technically, Justice Stewart is eligible to continue session of the Senate, though, unless confirmed, he must then leave the bench. If had not sat on this case, the 4-to-4 decision would have had the effect of upholding the lower court's conviction just the same. but an unsound decision would not have become the "law of the land." The four who voted in dissent were Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Douglas and Brennan. Their written opinion is a masterpiece of logic and sound law. They have often been criticized in these dispatches in other cases, but the viewpoint they expressed on the right of an innocent man to be spared unusual punishment because of his refusal to testify before a grand jury is an excellent exposition of judicial morality. It is a denunciation of the arbitrary way that criminal contempt cases can be handled by tyrannical judges.

The Constitution says that "the trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury." But "usage," based on caused the Constitution to be ignored. Justice Black, in a historic opinion a few years ago, made an impressive argument for jury trials in criminal con-

The President has shown more hold down federal spending than he has on any other proposition in recent years. He has repeatedly warned of the great dangers of inflation inherent in over-spending, and has shown a determination to gauge every governmental activity by that vardstick.

However, some Republicans in the Senate and House, particularly those who must face re-electio in 1960, are showing an unwillingness to go before the voters in the role of spending slashers at the expense of needed improvements.

This attitude was displayed clearly in recent Senate votes on public housing and airport construction bills, where many Republicans voted along with their Democratic colleagues for programs much, much larger than proposed by President Eisenhower in his budget message to sets seized during the war.

But the record now is made, and judges throughout the country are bound by the precedent created. The Chief Justice quite properly laments this as he writes of what has been the cus-"In the light of the sentences given in this type of case, I doubt if any judge in the federal system would summarily send a witness to the penitentiary for 15 months for merely refusing to testify in a grand jury investigation of whether a trucker is operating without an Interstate Commerce Commission certificate. It is quite obvious that much of the sentence was for some reason collateral to that investigation. It is not sufficient for the purpose of increasing punishment to act on the suspicion that the refusal of a witness to testify may redound to the interest of a racketeer, and on that basis deny him the protections that Congress has seen fit to accord all witnesses before grand juries. If such factors are to play a part in the sentence the witness is entitled to a hearing on notice."

The Chief Justice has put his finger on the procedural weaknesses in criminal contempt cases. The opportunity is too often denied a citizen to present evidence and argument through his attorney on the concrete issues that may otherwise influence a judge arbitrarily to impose drastic punishment for a minor offense. Instead of a jury of 12 men, a single judge can summarily punish, and apparently a Supreme Court majority will back him up.

Jim Bishop: Reporter By Jim Bishop

Not long ago, I wrote about my experiences with dentists. They are uniformly painful. Oral surgery, to my way of thinking, is not a refined art. I said so. The dentists of America, who deplore my attitude, decided to make a public brawl of it by writing letters to me and to editors across the country. Permit me to quote the dignified doctors: "... perhaps Bishop would lend his head to the dissecting room just for the examination of the imaginary third (The writer is Dr. dention . Hobart H. Proctor of Colorado) "The last paragraph of this unintelligent column of drivel written by a simian male is particularly unfortunate, as the week

He writes: "... and how about your mother-in-law who permitted her mouth to get into such a pathological condition-due to neglect -that her teeth fell out? A professor of a college, who

Bone surgery in medicine is never attempted without anesthesia, and a long recovery period is usually required.'

West Virginia Plays At Louisville Next

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI) -West Virginia's All - American Jerry West and Jay Metzler of Navy headed the Eastern Regional NCAA All - Tournament Team chosen Sunday by sports writers and sportscasters who covered the Charlotte regional games.

West and Metzler led the voting with 26 each for unanimous choice. Bob Cumings of Boston University got 24 votes, St. Joseph's Joe Spratt and John Egan collected 12 and 10 respectively to round out the first team

West scored 33 points in the finals to lead West Virginia to an 86-82 win over Boston University. West Virginia moves to Louisville next week for a stab at the NCAA championship.

Metzler, the tallest player ever to travel up and down the court for Navy, cleared the backboards and racked up 18 points to lead the Middies to a 70-56 win for the Eastern consolation crown. Navy earlier knocked North Carolina

Others receiving votes were Willie Akers, West Virginia, 8 Bob Smith West Virginia 7: Tom Stagis and Ed Washington of Boston University 4 each; Joe Gallo and Bob Clarke of St. Joseph's four and two respectively; West Virginia's Ronnie Retton, Boston's Jack Leaman and Gary Banyard of Navy one each.

West Virginia Plays At Louisville Next

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI) -West Virginia's All - American Jerry West and Jay Metzler of Navy headed the Eastern Regional NCAA All - Tournament Team chosen Sunday by sports writers and sportscasters who covered the Charlotte regional games.

West and Metzler led the voting with 26 each for unanimous choice. Bob Cumings of Boston University got 24 votes. St. Joseph's Joe Spratt and John Egan collected 12 and 10 respectively to round out the first team.

West scored 33 points in the finals to lead West Virginia to an 86-82 win over Boston University. West Virginia moves to Louisville next week for a stab at the NCAA championship.

Metzler, the tallest player ever to travel up and down the court for Navy, cleared the backboards and racked up 18 points to lead the Middies to a 70-56 win for the Eastern consolation crown. Navy earlier knocked North Carolina out of running for the title. Others receiving votes were Willie Akers. West Virginia. 8: Bob Smith West Virginia 7: Tom Stagis and Ed Washington of Boston University 4 each: Joe Gallo and Bob Clarke of St. Joseph's four and two respectively: West Virginia's Ronnie Retton. Boston's Jack Leaman and Gary Banyard of Navy one each.

A 23-year-old Cumberland man is being held in City Jail on $500 bond after a three-car collision in which two houses also were damaged yesterday morning.

John Michael Reitmeier, 22 West First Street, was charged with at least one motor vehicle violation and his hearing was scheduled for Wednesday morning in Trial Magistrates Court. City Police who investigated said Reitmeier told them he "must have dozed off" while driving north on Bedford Street about 4:30 a. m.

Three-Car Pileup His automobile crashed into the rear of a parked car belonging to Vincent Davis, 353 Bedford Street, and careened off to strike the front porch of the residence of Mrs. D. D. Lepley, 355 Bed-
